At the International Aids Society conference, WHO will highlight how global progress in reducing HIV-related deaths can be accelerated by stepping up support and services for populations disproportionately impacted by the epidemic, including young children. In 2019, there were an estimated 95,000 HIV-related deaths and 1,50,000 new infections among children. Only about half (53 per cent) of children in need of ARV therapy were receiving it.

NACO to bring in phased revised drug regimen for first-line HIV treatment

Tenofovir, lamuvidine and douletagravir (TLD) will now replace existing drugs as first-line HIV treatment. The NACO will bring in the revised drug regimen in a phased manner. Systematic reviews have shown the efficacy of douletagravir-based regimen, which is better tolerated by HIV patients. Initially, ARV regimen of drugs for first-line treatment was zidovudine lamuvidine and efavirenz (ZLE), while second choice was tenofovir lamuvidine efavirenz (TLE) "Each of the drugs, however, has its own side effects," NACO officials said.

Chhattisgarh has already identified HIV patients to receive the new drug regimen while Maharashtra will get its supply next week.
